

BANK REWARDS GIRL WHO SAVED CASH IN HOLD-UP

Income for Life to Be Settled on Plucky Eva Javornicka.

CAN'T UNDERSTAND IT

Still Thinks She Stopped a Street Fight—Man She Caught Arraigned.

Eva Javornicka, the young Polish immigrant girl whose bravery prevented three highwaymen from robbing a bank messenger of $40,000 at First avenue and First street yesterday afternoon faces a life of pleasure and ease she never dreamed of in her wildest imaginings of what might happen in this great country. The Jefferson Bank, whose cash she saved, has arranged to make provision to support her for life.

Max Roth, Vice-President of the bank, was at first disposed to give the girl a substantial sum of money as partial recompense for her services. After consulting some of her friends and relatives, he decided that it would be better to set aside a fund from which she might draw an income.

Life Income for Her.

"This is the course we will take, I think," said Mr. Roth at the bank. "Of course we will attempt to do what is most agreeable to the young woman, but we believe that it would be best to so secure a reward for her that she would be sure of getting some return from it as long as she lives. She not only saved the bank $40,000, but she undoubtedly saved the life of one of our messengers."

Miss Javornicka has been in a tremor of excitement ever since, upon seeing three men with drawn knives set upon her, she jumped into the fray and spoiled the latest piece of highway robbery work that has been attempted in New York in years. She has not only convinced that she saved a bank $40,000. She cannot bring herself to believe that there is any such thing as the world's first street fight and she interfered in a street fight and probably saved a man's life.

Suspect His Brother.

Velser, Adelman and Stern, the three messengers who were held up, were not severely injured. Adelman will carry some bad knife scars on his arms and hands. Casimo Riccobono, of No. 426 East Thirteenth street, who was chased by the girl until he was captured and identified by her as one of the thieves, was arraigned in Yorkville Police Court this afternoon. With him were his father, Giovanni, and his three brothers, Dominio, Salvatore and Antonio. The detectives believe that at least one of the three brothers of Casimo was engaged in the attempted robbery.

ROBBERS BREAK WATCHMAN'S BACK

Mason Radesky, a night watchman, is laid up at St. Catherine's Hospital, Williamsburg, with a broken spine and the doctors say that he may not live through it. Early today he was attacked by robbers at the Sonoma Varnish Works, Williamsburg, where he was employed, and was found, groaning and unconscious, by his wife. He is fifty-two years old and lives at No. 259 Norman avenue, which is alongside the Varnish Works.

ROOSEVELT AT THE WEDDING OF MISS OLIVER.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—A wedding of much interest in official society circles in this city was that of Miss Elizabeth Shaw Oliver, eldest daughter of the Assistant Secretary of War and Mrs. Robert Shaw Oliver, at Francis K. Stevens, of New York, at noon today at the Oliver residence on N street. Among the notable guests present were the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, Secretary of War Taft and Mrs. Taft and the British Ambassador and Mrs. James Bryce.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Roland Cotton Smith, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, in the drawing-room, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion. The bride was given away by her father and the best man was Eben Stevens, a brother of the bridegroom. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander H. Stevens, of New York.

The Ideal Husband One Who Can Live Without Being Loved, but Cannot Live Without Loving

—Fra Eibertus Hubbard.

But Mutual Ambitions and Good Health, Not Love, Make Best Basis
for Happy Marriage, Says
Sage of East Aurora.

DIVORCE A HEROIC CURE FOR SOCIAL ANKYLOSIS.

World Must Be Getting Better, He Tolds, for Doctors, Undertakers and Preachers Are All Complaining of Hard Times.

By Nixola-Greeley-Smith.

NIXOLA GREELEY-SMITH

Eibert Hubbard, the Fra Eibertus of "The Philistine," author of "A Message to Garcia," of the "Little Journeys" series and many other notable works, asked, when he was married to his present wife, that the word "obey" be inserted in his portion of the ceremony. He said then:

"If I am willing to trust my life to a woman I am willing to obey her, because I have confidence that she would ask of me nothing that would be impossible."

I met Mr. Hubbard some weeks ago at a dinner party with the wife he had promised to obey, but it was not until after he had gone back to the Roycroft settlement, which he founded at East Aurora, N. Y., just outside of Buffalo, that it occurred to me the views of this extremely unusual husband on certain domestic questions of the hour would be most interesting. So I decided to interview Mr. Hubbard by letter and sent to him a series of questions to which he has very courteously replied. My questions and his answers to them are given below.

BEST BASIS FOR HAPPY MARRIAGE.

1. What is the most lasting basis for a happy marriage?
Mutual ambitions and good health—and health is a habit.
2. Is it love?
No. It is friendship between a man and woman of similar age who love the same things and have like ideas on questions of what constitutes humor. Going the same way, they go hand in hand and mutually sustain and encourage each other.
3. How may we distinguish love from infatuation?
Infatuation is a love for the person or individual. Love is an admiration for the qualities of mind, body and soul that make up the individual. However, infatuation is myopic, with leaning toward strabismus.
4. What is the cure for divorce, or is divorce itself a cure?
Divorce is heroic treatment for social and sexual ankylosis (stiff joints) and cures itself.

LIFE A BURDEN FEW WEEKS AGO SAYS MRS. HULTZ

Would Like to Tell Her Experience to Everybody in New York City.

The astonishing record made throughout the West by the Cooper preparations is rapidly being duplicated in New York. Cooper seems to have convinced an immense number of people that his theory is correct and that his medicines will do what he claims.

The most interesting feature of the tremendous amount of medicine Cooper is now selling at Riker's Broadway and Ninth street store is the state-ments made by those who have been taking the young man's preparation and who have become enthusiastic converts to his beliefs and his treatment.

The following is among statements of this character made by some of Cooper's callers. Monday afternoon, Mrs. Edward Hultz, of No. 1020 Hall place, Bronx, said: "I am well again after two years constant suffering with chronic indigestion. When I say I am well I mean it, for I am to-day in perfect health. For the last two weeks I have eaten meat twice a day, with bad results whatsoever. Prior to this I have not been able to touch meat in any form for two years. When I got the Cooper treatment a month ago I was a physical wreck. I had grown so thin and weak that I was afraid I had consumption. The gas in my stomach was at times so bad that it pressed on my heart, causing intense pain. The slightest exertion would make my heart pound until I grew faint, and I was sure I had heart disease."

"I began to feel better after taking the medicine four days. From that time on I have been getting better every day. For the past week I have been happy and well, with no signs of indigestion or heart trouble, and with a fine appetite. I now wake in the morning anxious for breakfast and full of energy. I eat a big breakfast, in digestion. I should like to tell every one in New York about Mr. Cooper's medicine; it is marvellous. Any one who has stomach trouble and does not try it is missing a chance of a life time."

Justice John B. McKeon, of the Court of Special Sessions, is seriously ill at his home, No. 151 East Eighty-third street. It is said there is little hope for his recovery.

Tiny Hero and the Girl He Saved From Drowning in North River

GRACE VANDERHOFF 13 YEARS
WALTER SCHAFER 7 YEARS

VANDERBILT SAYS HE DOESN'T WANT TO BE AMBASSADOR

Commodore of New York
Yacht Club Just Back
From Long Cruise.

Cornelius Vanderbilt does not want to be Ambassador to Rome. Mr. Vanderbilt told a reporter for The Evening World so today. He also said that he had no designs upon the German Ambassadorship.

"I don't expect to be made Ambassador to Rome, and I don't know that I would take the job if it were offered to me," said Mr. Vanderbilt as he swung down Fifth avenue from his residence, No. 677, his reddish beard carefully trimmed and his features greatly sun-browned by his recent cruise across the Atlantic on his yacht, the North Star.

When the Commodore of the New York Yacht Club was told that Kaiser William wanted him as Ambassador to Berlin, and that it was understood that Washington refused to accede to the imperial request, he said, laughingly, "I had not heard the report. If true, I am sure it was very nice of the Kaiser, but I might not prove such a desirable Ambassador if I was appointed. However, I wish you would announce that I am not a candidate for either post; the honor is one which I have no right to expect."

Mr. Vanderbilt was asked if he had seen Lipton's Shamrock when on the other side. "I did not," he said. "Anyhow, this boat cannot be a cup challenger, being only 75 feet on the water line. To try for the cup the challenger must have a length of 90 feet."

"Will Mr. Vanderbilt cross with his new yacht?" was asked. "I should not be surprised if he did bring over Shamrock," said Mr. Vanderbilt. "In that event he could compete in the races either of the Eastern or the Brooklyn Yacht Clubs. But I do not know his plans."

Mr. Vanderbilt was asked if he had anything to say concerning the reported reconciliation of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Vanderbilt, which his mother, Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, was said to be attempting to arrange.

"I do not care to discuss personal matters," was his reply. "I left Southampton on May 1, and a great deal happened while I was at sea. I must beg to be excused."

20 CHILDREN IN COLLISION OF RUNAWAY TRAIN

They Start Cars Moving Down
Grade and 17 Are Hurt in Crash That Follows.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., May 26.—Seventeen children were injured, several of them fatally, when a score of boys and girls, ranging in age from six to fourteen years, climbed aboard a truck on the Philadelphia and Reading branch to the Lincoln Colliery, in the west end of the county, and started it down the grade.

MAY BE MURDER VICTIM.

The police of Edgewater, N. J., are to-day trying to learn the identity of a man whose body was found in the North River there late yesterday. The only mark of identification was a postal card in the pocket addressed "August Wasserman, New York." There was a deep wound in the forehead and other marks on the head.

The man was about fifty years old, five feet eight inches and wore a black suit and blue shirt. The body had been in the water about three weeks.

After the Matinee do not fail to stop at Snyder's

Snyder's

Have opened their Twenty-third Greater New York Store at

150 West 125th Street

Just West of 126th & C. & D. Street

Older Harlem Store at

60 West 125th Street

A Complete Line of Toys

Absolutely Pure and Fresh Confections

Will always be carried in stock

Fountain Drinks

Served to Perfection at our Fountains

AND ALSO AT SMALL TABLES

Fancy Baskets, Boxes and Latest

Novelties in Favors for all occasions

IN LARGE VARIETY

No more acceptable gift at any time than a Box of Snyder's

Candies

Sent everywhere by

Mail and Express

Please describe

BOY OF 7 SAVES GIRL, 13, FROM DEATH IN RIVER

Walter Schaffer Dives In After Grace and Holds Her Until Help Arrives.

Few life-savers have started a career with a more notable exploit than was achieved by a tiny lad, weighing less than eighty pounds and not yet seven years old. Last night he plunged off a raft in the North River and held a girl playmate, twice his size and years, above the choppy water, long enough for a strong arm to rescue them both.

The heroic midjet is Walter Schaffer, the only son of Mrs. Maria Brandt, at No. 440 West Twenty-sixth street. He will be seven years old June 23. The girl is Grace Vanderhoff, powerful of figure, who towers almost a foot and a half above Walter. Grace lives with her father, a widower, and brothers almost across the street from Walter's home. She is thirteen years old and lives at No. 21 on Twenty-eighth street. She and Walter are fast friends despite the disparity in size.

Due consideration must be given this "manly boy," as admiring women in the block have called Walter for months. Saving Grace from drowning yesterday is not the first time that Walter's chivalrous nature has asserted itself. His stepfather, Charles Brandt, said this morning that Walter quietly stole into the house two days ago with a black eye. He investigated and learned that the child had battled with a big negro boy who was poking fun at another little girl in the house, thrashed him and then escorted the rescued party home safely. "Aw, wai't de use makin' a fuss over a little thing like 'at'?" protested Walter when an Evening World photographer asked him to stand for a picture. "Grace simply tumbled into 'at' water and held her hand 'till a big man pulled us both out."

Walter is under a strict sentence never to leave the block in which he lives, following a little session with his stepfather to-day from which Walter emerged with tear-stained face, but by no means less courageous. Grace also admitted that her experience had not differed from that of her rescuer in essentials.

"And Grace is saved anyhow," smiled the kid life-saver later. "We deserved to be whipped 'cause we popped said we should never go near de river, but yesterday was such a fine day and we just couldn't help it."

It was after 5 o'clock when Walter, Grace and Kittle McAdams, about Grace's age, wandered down to the piers off West Twenty-third street, where several young fellows were waiting in the warm water. A raft moored to a small landing offered an opportunity to do some sailing, and the little party made for the boat. Removing their shoes and stockings, Grace and Kittle prepared to sit on the edge of the raft and allow their feet to hang into the water. Just as Grace sat down, she slipped and disappeared under the water. Little Walter heard her cry of fright, and saw Kittle pointing into the water. He plunged, clothes and all. A few seconds and his head emerged, his fingers tightly clenched to Grace's long black hair. Edward McGuire sat in the window of a tug nearby watching the youngsters at play. He did not see Grace slide into the water, but saw Walter arise and heard him cry for aid. He signalled Walter Johnson, a few feet from the raft, and Johnson lost no time diving into the water after the youngsters, who had again disappeared. Johnson thrice dived with Grace. They soon revived and Grace promptly showered kisses on the brave little fellow and the man who had prevented them from drowning.

Women's Low Shoes

AN especially attractive and therefore popular model is the Two Eyelet Sailor Tie in Tan Russia, Gun Metal and Patent Leather. Has fancy perforations, Cuban heel and light welted sole.

$4.00

One Eyelet Sailor Ties
Oxfords and Newports in Tan Russia, Gun Metal, Patent Leather and White.

$3.00 to $6.00

Alexander

SIXTH AVENUE AND NINETEENTH STREET

All the adjectives that could be used to describe a different and better graham cracker couldn't do justice to

RED LABEL GRAHAM CRACKERS

They possess an indescribable palate-charm and goodness that can be appreciated only by actual eating.

In moisture-proof packages.
NATIONAL BISCUIT COMPANY

HELMAR TURKISH CIGARETTES

The Helmar is not the heavy sort which tires you.
Neither is it the insipid sort with no "taste." It's the "happy medium."

10c for 10
Sold Everywhere

S. ANAGYROS, Manufacturer
111 Fifth Ave., New York

There Was a Cat!

that caught all the rats and mice in the house in which she lived and furnished more amusement than a bagful of monkeys.

If you'd like a cat like that don't forget that you can get one ANY DAY from the Animal Stores or individuals advertising in the "Dogs and Birds" columns of

The World,
New York's First
Newspaper.

